

SHANGHAI SCULPTURE SPACE AND EXHIBITION

Shanghai Sculpture Space and Exhibition 上海城市雕塑艺术中心

This is a MUST SEE as a forerunner to the World Expo in Shanghai 2010. The exhibition space opened in March 2007, to explore the culture, sculptures, space, urban life and the modern arts of World Expo Shanghai.

A former steel-making factory of about 20,000 squares - about as big as two airplanes hangers full of dust and marvellous contemporary sculpture – an expansive hall filled with tiers of sculpted acrobats and extraordinary amount of massive new works – a Leaping Yellow Horse, a bronze Telephone; red resin Flame Memory, a Red reinforced plastic Bride - human drama, politics, literature.

Poor lighting and layout, but the place is still being developed. It reeks of creativity. The building encompasses design company offices and a photo gallery.

Outside is a park of more crazy and innovative works.

Open Tuesday to Sunday 10 am – 4pm FREE ADMISSION
